Three join Madison Children's Museum staff

MADISON, Wis. (Nov. 9, 2009) — Madison Children's Museum recently added three new employees to its staff.

McKenzie Glynn is the museum's new Membership and Registration Coordinator. The Madison, Wis. native graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison with a bachelor's degree in art and art history. She worked at the Portland (Ore.) Children's Museum in the Visitor Services and Education departments, then moved to San Francisco for six years, working at the Bay Area Discovery Museum in Visitor Services and then as docent coordinator at the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art. She returned to Madison a year ago and this past spring joined Madison Children's Museum part time in Visitor Services. Over the summer, Glynn directed Madison School & Community Recreation's Super Center Art Camp.

Amy Zarlenga Mertz is the museum's new Communications Coordinator. She earned a bachelor's degree in journalism and women's studies at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1998, and since then has worked in various editing capacities for The Capital Times and Capital Newspapers Inc. Mertz, a native of Canfield, Ohio, lives in Mount Horeb, Wis.

Tim Dreyer is the museum's new Exhibits Project Manager and Fabricator. Dreyer earned a bachelor of fine arts from the University of Illinois at Chicago, and an associate degree in illustration from the American Academy of Art in Chicago. He moved to Madison four years ago, previously doing art restoration and custom framing. He is a native of Portage, Wis.

Madison Children's Museum: Madison Children's Museum (MCM) is an award-winning organization which fosters family and community connections, and provides a place where every child can learn through play in an interactive environment. MCM's hands-on exhibits and programs celebrate and encourage children's imaginations and the power of play as the cornerstone of learning.
