MADISON, Wis. (Thursday, May 26, 2011) — Madison Children's Museum will kick off the summer season with live performances and fun at Juniorpalooza, the museum's annual block party, from 10 a.m.–12:30 p.m. outside the building at 100 N. Hamilton Street.

Admission to the event is free, and all are welcome to enjoy the festivities! Truly Remarkable Loon will start the party at 10 a.m. with a juggling performance. KG and the Ranger will lasso in a crowd at 11 a.m. with cowboy songs and rope tricks. A final performance by El-Tin Fun at noon will have everyone moving and grooving to some rocking beats.

Other activities will include arts and crafts, access to the Brand Log Cabin at 11 a.m. to experience pioneer living, and more. Admission to this outdoor event is free, although paid admission will be required to enter the museum. If it rains heavily, events will be moved indoors, and admission will be required.
